

Henry J. Mann, PharmD, FASHP, FCCP, FCCM
Dean and Professor
College of Pharmacy
The Ohio State University

Henry J. Mann is Dean and Professor at The Ohio State University College of Pharmacy. Previously, he was Dean at the University of Toronto where he directed implementation of the first English-language entry-to-practice PharmD program in Canada. Dr. Mann rose through the faculty ranks at the University of Minnesota where he also served as Associate Department Head for Pharmacy Practice, Associate Dean for Professional and External Relations and Associate Dean for Clinical Affairs. Dr. Mann was the founding director of the interdisciplinary Center for Excellence in Critical Care at Minnesota and of the national research network Partnership for Excellence in Critical Care.

Dr. Mann has presented and published widely on the application of pharmacology and pharmacotherapy principles to critically ill patients. His contributions to research and practice have been recognized by election as a Fellow of the American College of Critical Care Medicine, the American College of Clinical Pharmacy, and the American Society of Health-Systems Pharmacists. He received the Research Award of the ASHP Research and Education Foundation and the Technology Enhanced Learning Award from the University of Minnesota. He also received the University of Minnesota Pharmacy Alumni Society Faculty Recognition Award and the Weaver Medal for Outstanding Contributions to the College. The University of Kentucky selected him to receive the Paul F. Parker Award which is given to recognize a resident of their program who has made outstanding contributions to pharmacy practice.